19 Risk Disclosure – Before investing into any of the Odyssey Funds, the investor should read the complete details of the Fund/s in the Plan Rules, make his/her own risk assessment, and when necessary, he/she must seek independent/professional opinion. The investor should consider, among other things the following points:

- Interest Rate Risk: This is the potential for an investor to experience losses due to changes in interest rates. The purchase and sale of a debt instrument may result in profit or loss because the value of debt instrument changes inversely with prevailing interest rates.

The Odyssey Funds, being marked-to-market, are affected by changes in interest rates thereby affecting the value of fixed income investments such as bonds. Interest rate changes may affect fixed income securities inversely, i.e. as interest rates rise, bond prices fall and when interest rates decline, bond prices rise. As the prices of bonds in a fund adjust to a rise in interest rates, the fund's unit price may decline. Investment in government securities in Philippine Peso, although considered credit risk-free, is subject to interest rate risk.

- Market/Price Risk: This is the potential for an investor to experience losses due to changes in market prices of securities (e.g. bonds and equities). It is the exposure to the uncertain market value of a portfolio due to fluctuations.

It is the risk of the Fund to lose value due to a decline in securities prices, which may sometimes happen rapidly or unpredictably. The value of investments fluctuates over a given time period because of general market conditions, economic changes or other events that impact large portions of the market such as political events, natural calamities, etc. As a result the Net Asset Value per Unit (NAVPU) may increase to make a profit or decrease to lose money.

- Liquidity Risk: This is financial risk due to inability to sell or convert assets into cash quickly or in instances where conversion to cash is possible but at a loss. It is caused by different reasons such as trading in securities with small or few outstanding issues, absence of buyers, limited buyers/sell activity, suspension of trading, extreme market conditions, underdeveloped capital market, or events commonly known as “force majeure”.

Liquidity risk occurs when certain securities in the Fund portfolio may be difficult or impossible to sell at a particular time which may prevent redemption of investment in the Fund until its assets can be converted to cash. Even government securities which are the most liquid of fixed income securities may be subjected to liquidity risk particularly if sizeable volume is involved.

- Credit Risk/Default Risk: This refers to the risk of loss due to a borrower's failure to repay principal and/or interest in a timely manner on instruments such as bonds, loans, or other forms of security which the borrower issued. This inability of the borrower to make good on its financial obligations may have resulted from adverse changes in its financial condition, thus, lowering credit quality of the security, and consequently lower price (market/price risk) which contributes to the difficulty in selling such security.

It also includes risk on a counterparty (a party that the Fund Manager trades with), defaulting on a contract to deliver its obligation either in cash or securities.

This is the risk of losing value in the Fund portfolio in the event the borrower defaults on his obligation or in the case of a counterparty, when it fails to deliver on the agreed trade. This decline in the value of the Fund happens because the default/failure would make the price of the security go down and may make the security difficult to sell. As these happen, the Fund's NAVPu will be affected by a decline in value.

- Reinvestment Risk: This is risk associated with the possibility of having lower returns or earnings when maturing funds or the interest earnings of funds are reinvested.

Investors in the Fund who redeem and realize their gains run the risk of reinvesting their funds in an alternative investment outlet with lower yields. Similarly, the Fund Manager is faced with the risk of not being able to find good or better alternative investment outlets as some securities in the fund matures

- Management Risk: The Odyssey Funds are subject to management risk because they are actively managed investment portfolios. The investment manager will apply investment techniques and risk analysis in making portfolio decisions, however, there are no guarantees that these will produce the intended results.

- Regulatory Risk: The operation of the Odyssey Funds is subject to various regulations governing areas such as accounting and taxation. There is a risk that regulators may change the current rules or impose new one, leading to a negative impact on the Fund's investments and returns. For example, the imposition of higher taxes would lower the Fund's returns.

- Other Risks: Your participation in the Fund may be further exposed to the risk of any actual or potential conflicts of interest in the handling of in-house or related party transactions by BPI Asset Management. These transactions may include own-bank deposits, purchase of own-institution or affiliate obligations (stock, mortgages); purchase of assets from or sales to own institution, directors, officers, subsidiaries, affiliates or other related interests/parties; or purchases or sales between fiduciary/managed accounts.

Any income or loss arising from market fluctuations and price volatility of securities held by the Fund, even if invested in government securities, is for the account of the investor. As such, the Fund is not capital protected and may not be suitable for clients seeking preservation of capital.
- Past performance is not indicative of future performance. Value of the Odyssey Funds can go up or down.
